Dear Postmaster General Tisch:

Thank you for sending me the commemorative stamp album in honor of William Faulkner.

Billy Faulkner, as those in Oxford knew him, created his Yoknapatawpha County to analyze the textured layers of the South's societal character and spirit. In doing so, he not only captured the full force of Southern life, but also presented a comprehensive conception of the world for all to recognize and appreciate.

I am sure to enjoy this album, and I thank you for your thoughtfulness.

Sincerely,

Thank you for your message expressing support for the President's nomination of Judge Robert H. Bork to the position of Associate Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court.

President Reagan believes Judge Bork to be a man of the highest integrity and qualification as well as an eloquent and powerful advocate of judicial restraint, a philosophy whose guiding principle is that it is the legislature's role to enact laws and the court's role to interpret them.

In making the nomination, the President stated:

Judge Bork is recognized as a premier Constitutional authority. We're fortunate to be able to draw upon such an impressive legal mind; an experienced judge and a man who already has devoted so much of his life to public service. He'll bring credit to the Court and his colleagues, as well as to his country and the Constitution.

The American Bar Association gave Judge Bork its highest rating -- "exceptionally well qualified" -- when he was confirmed by the Senate as an Appellate Judge in 1982. President Reagan is confident that the current Senate confirmation process will be equally successful and he looks forward to Judge Bork beginning a long and distinguished career as a Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Each of the major United States organizations that have requested new grants since August 1984 when the policy was announced (except the Planned Parenthood Federation of America, which has sued AID) has accepted funding subject to the restrictions against providing appropriated funds to foreign organizations that conduct abortion activities. These U.S. organizations have continued to operate effective programs making subgrants to nongovernmental organizations in foreign countries.

In conclusion, I do not believe the Administration is prepared to alter the Mexico City policy.

Warm regards.

Dear Roy:

Thank you for your June 29 letter in which you express concern about the policies governing the Administration's support for overseas family planning programs.

The policy of this Administration is to provide strong support for voluntary population programs, but firm opposition to abortion as a method of family planning. This policy, as you are aware, was announced by the United States at the International Conference on Population sponsored by the United Nations and held in Mexico City in August 1984.

To implement this policy, the Agency for International Development (AID) does not provide United States funds to foreign nongovernmental organizations that perform or actively promote abortion as a method of family planning. This policy does not infringe on the rights of foreign organizations to decide how they will spend their own funds, nor on the opportunities Third World women have to obtain advice from whomever they wish regarding their pregnancies. Rather, the policy is premised on the United States' right to decide how it will spend its funds for population assistance.

It is important to note that implementation of the Administration's policy (i.e., AID's withholding funds from foreign organizations which engage in abortion activities) has not reduced our total family planning assistance. AID has increased its support for family planning under this Administration, and AID remains the largest single donor in international family planning, providing more than 40 percent of the estimated $500 million in assistance from all international donors last year.

AID considers population assistance to be a critical part of its effort to improve the health and survival of mothers and children. Family planning makes possible adequate birth spacing, thereby lowering maternal and child mortality rates. Administration policy emphasizes contraception, rather than abortion, as a means of child-spacing, and AID's support for family planning services measurably reduces reliance on abortion.

Each of the major U.S. organizations that have requested new grants since August 1984, except the Planned Parenthood Federation of America which has sued AID, has accepted funding subject to the restrictions against providing appropriated funds to foreign organizations which conduct abortion activities. These U.S. organizations have continued to operate effective programs making subgrants to nongovernmental organizations in foreign countries.

Please do not hesitate to write me if you want additional information.

Sincerely,

Howard H. Baker, Jr.

Dear Sam:

Thank you and your colleagues at California Republicans for Choice for your June 8 letter in which you express concern about the policies governing the Administration's support for overseas family planning programs.

The policy of this Administration is to provide strong support for voluntary population programs, but to firmly oppose abortion as a method of family planning. This policy, which is based in the statutory law governing U.S. foreign assistance, was delineated by the United States at the International Conference on Population sponsored by the United Nations and held in Mexico City in August 1984.

To implement this policy, the Agency for International Development (AID) does not provide U.S. funds to foreign nongovernmental organizations that perform or actively promote abortion as a method of family planning. This policy does not infringe on the rights of foreign organizations to decide how they will spend their own funds, nor on the opportunity Third World women have to obtain advice from whomever they wish regarding their pregnancies. Rather, the United States has the right to decide how it will spend its funds for population assistance.

It is important to note some additional facts which I believe are relevant to your concern, although not raised in your letter. Implementation of the Administration's policy (i.e., AID's withholding of funds from foreign organizations which engage in abortion activities) has not reduced our total family planning assistance. AID has increased its support for family planning under this Administration, and AID remains the largest single donor in the field of international family planning, providing more than 40 percent of the estimated $500 million in assistance from all international donors last year.

AID considers population assistance to be a critical part of its effort to improve the health and survival of mothers and children. Family planning makes possible adequate birth spacing, thereby lowering maternal and child mortality rates. Administration policy emphasizes contraception, rather than abortion, as a means of child-spacing, and AID's support for family planning services measurably reduces reliance on abortion.

On behalf of Senator Baker, I want to thank you for your letter. He was pleased to learn about your efforts on behalf of children suffering from muscular dystrophy.

I am sorry to send a disappointing answer. Because it is not possible for the Senator to respond favorably to the many requests he receives for donations, he has adopted the policy of declining all, except those to which he is already committed.
